Master of Digital Entrepreneurship

The Master of Digital Entrepreneurship (MoDE) is an innovative, project-based study program focusing on digitalization from the perspectives of law, economics, social and computer sciences. MoDE is offered by the European New School of Digital Studies (ENS), a joint venture of the European University Viadrina Frankfurt (Oder) in Germany and the Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań, Poland. You will be provided with a set of theoretical and practical skills to develop and reflect on your own entrepreneurial solutions for the challenges of the digital transformation in Europe. Studying at ENS opens excellent career opportunities in various fields of science, politics, civil society and economics. After graduating, MoDE students will have a firm foundation in ethics and the know-how to organize, plan and run a business, both profit and non-profit.
