

Full scholarships for Georgian citizens at the College of Europe in Natolin

The target audience: bachelor's 4th and master 2nd grades, as well as the alumni of TSU. We are also interested in graduates with some work experience.

Are you interested in European affairs and would like to contribute to the European integration of Georgia? The best way is to obtain relevant education and be prepared to make the change!

We are cordially inviting you to attend the presentation of the representative of the College of Europe in Natolin on 18 October at 12:00 (Address: TSU I building, Maro Makashvili Reading Hall, Ilia Thavtchavadzre Avenue #1) to know more about the master's program on European Interdisciplinary Studies and full scholarship schemes for Georgian citizens.

The call for the master's program of the College of Europe in Natolin for the 2024-2025 academic year will be open on 16 October 2024. On this occasion, Tatevik Hovhannisyan, Communication Officer of the College of Europe in Natolin, will deliver a presentation at Tbilisi State University about the master's program, present the scholarship schemes for Georgians, share her own experience as a student at the College of Europe in Natolin.

The College of Europe in Natolin (<https://www.coleuropenatolin.eu/>) offers a bilingual master's program in European Interdisciplinary Studies. It provides a multiangle character of the studies by touching upon the areas of history, politics, law, economy from the European perspective. The proposed master's program is considered one of the most comprehensive interdisciplinary programs in European studies in whole Europe.

The students at the College of Europe come from the countries of the European Union, as well as from the regions that are part of the EU neighbourhood policy, including Georgia. Natolin has several scholarship schemes for Georgian citizens: for historians, for journalists and general scholarships for European neighbourhood country representatives.

The MA Program includes high-quality education, one of the best visiting professors in the fields, high-level meetings with the EU and Neighbourhood representatives, 2 study trips in two semesters, many conferences, simulation games. In addition, there are professional development courses, career planning meetings. Students have the opportunity to start various initiatives, take part and organise national days! Eventually, it is a perfect place to study and enjoy Natolin and its magnificent environment.
